Activities for As You See Me

Norwegian title: Et blikk på hverandre

Students will portray one another through sounds and photographs. It can help to group students who already know one another. If they also spend time together outside school, this can enrich the preparation.

Activity 1 Photography

Students should take around five photographs of the person they are portraying. These might show their face, hands, head, body, wheelchair, bicycle, electric vehicle, clothes or anything else that is part of their everyday life. Photos can also show activities they enjoy, such as playing an instrument, being physically active, cooking, eating, playing computer games, swimming, going for walks or playing. Another option is to photograph objects that are part of their life, such as their favourite breakfast cereal, sweater, school bag or lunchbox. You can also ask for photos from home, such as pictures of their room, family photos or childhood photos.

Activity 2 Sounds

Do not make sound recordings. Instead, think of and write down around ten sounds that describe the person you are portraying. These could be the sounds of a swimming pool or water, forest or nature, their favourite music, different animals, a fart or a burp, cars, boats, planes, computers, food wrapping, a powered wheelchair or anything else that makes a sound. Put the list in that person's folder together with the photographs.
